

1

After taking the profile, take some time to reflect on your primary love language. Does the information provided seem accurate? Does it help you better understand how you communicate and receive love?

2

Read through the five love languages and think about your family, friends, and co-workers. Think about the people who have obvious love languages. Also, consider those whose love language is harder to perceive.

3

Talk to the people in your life about their love language. Discuss how you can best communicate with this knowledge.

4

Read Matthew 22:37-40. The greatest and second greatest commandments both have to do with how we love. How important is it to be considerate of what best communicates love to the people we come into contact with every day?

5

Pray: Ask God to help you love others in a way that will deepen your relationships and bring glory to Him. Thank Him for the tool of the love languages and His power to put them into practice.

THE RESULTS

Which love language received the highest score? This is your primary love language. If point totals for two love languages are equal, you are "bilingual" and have two primary love languages. And if you have a secondary love language, or one that is close in score to your primary love language, this means that both expressions of love are important to you. The highest possible score for any single love language is 12.
