WARM UP

ASK THIS:

- When you hear the word "love", what comes to mind first: feelings or actions?

HAVE SOMEONE READ: 1 Corinthians 13:4-7 CSB

ASK THIS:

- After hearing the Apostle Paul's description of love, does love pertain more to feelings or actions?

DO THIS:

- Have a different group member read 1 Corinthians 13:4-7 CSB again but substitute "love" and "it" with "Jesus".

ASK THIS:

- How does this contrast with replacing "love" and "it" with your own name?

THE TEXT: WHAT DOES IT MEAN FOR ME?

Say This: In this week's message we learned that marriage is a relationship created by God between one man and one woman for a lifetime. To persevere, we must work to build strong marriages.

Ask This:

- Either off hand or looking online, discuss the differences between a contract and a covenant.
 - Some people view love as a feeling and marriage as a contract. If this were true, in what circumstances do couples have the right to backout of the marriage? Why or why not?
 - If these same people learned to view love as a chosen action and marriage as a covenant, in what ways would their relationship be impacted?
 - Would you agree that covenant marriage requires more work? Why or why not?

HAVE SOMEONE READ: Luke 14:12-14 CSB

Say This: Jesus was teaching on humility in this text. He says when you are serving others, do it in a way where you have no expectation to be repaid.

Ask This:

- In what ways do you serve your spouse where when not repaid, you get irritated?
- What could this say about your humility?
- When conflict arises due to unmet expectations, do you lean more towards a contract or covenant marriage mindset?

Say This: In the book Sacred Marriage, author Gary Thomas encourages his readers to consider this: “What if God designed marriage to make us holy more than to make us happy?” The book also asks this question: “How can we discover in the challenges of marriage the opportunities to learn more about God, grow in our understanding of him, and learn to love him more?”

Ask This:

- In your marital experience, are your actions motivated more by what makes you happy or by what pleases God?
- What aspects of God’s character would you most like your marriage to reveal to the world?
- How can you accomplish this?
- God loves us in spite of our flaws. How does marriage teach us to love our spouse in spite of their imperfections?
- If someone tried to describe your love for God solely by how well you love your spouse, what would they conclude?
- What are 1 or 2 ways you can serve your spouse, strengthen your marriage, and please God?

Ask This:

- Share your favorite family tradition that you created after “leaving” your family to be joined to your spouse.
- Was this an easy or difficult decision? Why?
- What aspects of your marriage are a good representation of Matthew 19:6? Does this come natural or does it require constant attention?

CLOSING THOUGHT

“The key question is this: Will we approach marriage from a God-centered view or a man-centered view? In a man-centered view, we will maintain our marriage as long as our earthly comforts, desires, and expectations are met. In a God-centered view, we preserve our marriage because it brings glory to God and points a sinful world to a reconciling Creator.” – Gary Thomas, Sacred Marriage: What if God Designed Marriage To Make Us Holy More Than To Make Us Happy?
